Erik Hudson Awarded Cyclone Hockey's Player of the Week

Hudson's Shut-out and Outstanding Leadership Makes Him an Exceptional Player

Sep. 26, 2010 – Ames, Iowa - Cyclone Hockey is pleased to announce goalie Erik Hudson as Player of the Week. Hudson delivered a shut-out game during his second game of the season against the University of Central Oklahoma.

Erik sat during the Cyclones' opening weekend due to an injury, but his return to the ice was outstanding. With a total of 57 out of 60 saves for the series against the University of Central Oklahoma, Erik's save percentage is 95. Erik has been an excellent goaltender during his career at Iowa State. This is his fourth season playing for the Cyclones.

Before Hudson played for Iowa State, he played Juniors for the Burnaby Express of the BCHL. Hailing from Spokane, Was., Erik is currently a senior in business at Iowa State University and has excellent academics.

Head Coach Dr. Al Murdoch was very pleased with Hudson's performance. "Erik plays like we expect our seniors to play. He was able to make hard saves look easy and showed great leadership right down to the end."
