Cyclone Hockey 2008-2009 Schedule Released

AMES, Iowa- The Iowa State Cyclone Hockey team announced the release of their 45 regular season game schedule for the 2008-2009 American Collegiate Hockey Association (ACHA) season. Their schedule boasts 32 home games as well as a trip to Annapolis, MD to face off against the Naval Academy and other teams in the Navy Thanksgiving Tournament. The Cyclones schedule also faces last years Central States Collegiate Hockey League (CSCHL) and ACHA undefeated champions, University of Illinois, as well as a home series against last years runner-up Lindenwood University. The highly anticipated interstate rival game will again be a home and home series against Iowa, playing one night in Ames, before heading the next night to Cedar Rapids.

The seemingly tough schedule won't have the Cyclones too worried, as they are returning much of the same team that placed 4th in the CSCHL last season. The team will have two seniors, seven juniors, and 13 sophomores returning for the 2008-2009 season

When asked about the upcoming season, Cyclones Head Coach, Al Murdoch was enthusiastic and eager to get the season started.

“Man alive, it’s going to be unbelievable,” said Murdoch. “They’re gonna be hanging from the rafters, better get your season tickets now, they’re selling like hotcakes!”

Season tickets are available online at www.cyclonehockey.com or by calling 515-294-6164
